

Targeted Violence, Threat Assessments & Active Shooter Response Strategies

Wednesday, October 29th 2014 in Santa Maria, CA

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE TRAINING

There has been a deadly convergence of workplace violence, school-place violence and domestic violence to what is best described as targeted violence. Targeted violence is not an event, but rather a process. This intermediate to advanced training will focus on warning signs of a threat potential, pathway of targeted violence, and approaches to initial and comprehensive threat assessments. The content presented is applicable to the public, private, academic, and organizational arenas; threat posturing, preparatory behaviors and rehearsal fantasies of targeted violence know no bounds.

Key Points:

- Recognize differences between opportunistic violence and targeted violence.
- Identify warning signs of a pathway of targeted violence.
- Perform initial threat assessments by assessing for threat posturing, preparatory behaviors and rehearsal fantasies of targeted violence.
- Active shooter response strategies for civilians to evade, barricade and overwhelm on site/campus.

PRESENTER

Dr. Manny Tau is a clinical & forensic psychologist and a threat assessment professional. He has over 18 years of experience performing threat assessment and active threat management services for many recognized agencies and organizations in the public and private sector arenas nationwide, e.g., school districts, universities, law enforcement, companies, organizations.
